Bill Fitzpatrick is a New York-based actor who has been studying at The Barrow Group for the past year. He is working on transitioning from a career in finance. When not at work or acting, he can be found spending time with his family. Thanks to my teachers at TBG and to my classmates. Special thanks to Tracy, David and Josh for all their love and support.

Catie Chan is an actress and writer. Her career began in the experimental theater scene in Texas, clown school in California, then to Noh theaters and Butoh dance studios in Tokyo, and finally here to New York where she was nominated for Best Actress and won Most Creative Production for her play "ACTRESS" at New York Theatre Festival in 2022. Her work centers around mythology, femininity, karma and loneliness. She is currently developing a web series with F14 productions. You can keep up with her latest projects on instagram @catieisboring or on tiktok @catieisntboring.

Esme Mitchell (she/her) is a NYC based musical theatre actor. She has spent the last year performing regularly in cabarets as well as taking part in as many readings/workshops/student productions as possible. Favorite theatrical credits include The Prom (Emma), Guys and Dolls (Sarah), We Are The Tigers (Kate), Selections from "Dear Evan Hansen" (Zoe), Roaches!, Magical Girl. She wants to thank all her wonderful teachers from this past year as well as her friends and family who have made this possible!

Isabella Milkes is a Colombian - American actor and photographer. She started her acting career in the Academia Charlot in Bogota, Colombia, continued her studies in the Michelle Danner Acting Studio in Los Angeles and is now at The Barrow Group in New York. She hopes to be in independent film roles that explore topics about, immigration family dynamics, and identity.

Jacob Burke is very excited to be a part of The Barrow Group. Born and raised in Michigan, he moved to New York to pursue his passion. He has been auditioning and starring in short films to build up his resume while attending class. Jacob studied at Western Michigan University where he received a BS in Physics and a BA in Economics. He recently booked his first feature, which is set to film over the course of this summer, he is ecstatic! When he's not in class, auditioning, or on set, he is probably reading, watching soccer, or thinking about his next Dungeons and Dragons character. He wants to thank his instructors and classmates for being so supportive along the journey he has taken thus far.

Jada Henry is a writer and actor from Little Rock, Arkansas - currently residing in New York City. She retains a BA in Film and Screen Studies from Pace University where she was a Mellon Grant Writing Fellow for BIPOC storytellers. She has trained as an actor at The Barrow Group for three years and has gone on to work for CBS Net News - Paramount, New York City International Children's Film Festival, and The American Pavilion at Cannes Film Festival - Emerging Filmmakers Showcase. She has starred in several short films including Ring in a Matchbox, Pitch Day, and SPEECH. In 2020, she published her first fiction novel, The Principles of Good Taste and Ornament. Most recently, Jada cowrote F14 Entertainment's tenth film, Candle Sweat and also runs the ethical humorist newsletter So, Hear Me Out.... With a Diverse background in writing and performance her aptitude for creating visceral yet grounding tales creates a well-rounded storyteller that she strives to be throughout her career.

Jennifer Jang Born and raised in Southern California, she started acting as a way to confront her fear of being on stage. After taking her very first acting class at The Barrow Group, she realized outside of how scary acting was, it also provided her the space to do what she loved doing as a child, playing pretend. What started as confronting a fear, became opportunities for imagination, creativity, and to put it plain and simple, fun. Jennifer enjoys playing characters who are genuine in nature, have layers of complexity to them, characters who have internal struggles but fight to keep moving forward in life. When she is not taking classes, shooting a film with students, or auditioning for roles, she dabbles in jewelry making, creative writing, and is an avid movie watcher, especially rom-coms. She is an artist, animal lover, and a mother with two girls and a pupper.

Justin Diaz was born in Queens and raised in Harlem, New York. He comes from a Cape Verdean and Nigerian mother, and Puerto Rican father. A man of few words, his friends would describe him as a gentle giant. A freshman in his acting career, he took a chance on himself after being diagnosed with heart failure at the age of 23, and decided to try acting, something he never saw himself doing. Since then, he has been on a nonstop journey to better his craft.

Lhakpa Dolma Lama-Chen is a NYC-based actor, born and raised in Nepal. Aside from her passion for acting and dancing, she enjoys volunteering in community events and having a good meal with loved ones. Her wildest dream is to be the first Nepali to win an Oscar.

Mackenzie Rogers was raised in a small town of 3,500 people in Southern Illinois called Marshall. Upon graduating from Southern Illinois University Edwardsville with her bachelor's degree in Psychology and minors in biology, chemistry, and pre-law, she struggled to decide which career to pursue. She wanted to be a doctor, a lawyer, and the President of the United States. Recognizing that she was too full of life and ambitions to settle on one profession, she chose the profession that would allow her to become everything she ever wanted to be- an actor. She plans to pursue work in the film and television industry, and her dream role would be to play Julia Roberts in Erin Brockovich or the female version of Matthew McConaughey in A Time to Kill. In her free time, Rogers enjoys traveling, playing chess, serving at Fount Church in NYC, and reading romance mystery novels. Rogers currently resides in a studio apartment in Brooklyn with her 3 pets- a golden retriever and two cats. She loves visitors and promises to charge only a small fee to enter her petting zoo.

Mia Trubelja is an NYC based film and theatre actress. She received her BFA in Acting from Emerson College, and studied Shakespeare in the UK at the British American Drama Academy. She is most drawn to scripts that include themes of coming of age, class, and female rage. www.miatrubelja.com

Philip Jones Credits include: Dog Sees God (Beethoven) The Libation Bearers (Pylades) The Wedding Singer (Glen) Agamemnon (The Watchman) The Fantasticks (Hucklebee) She Kills Monsters (Ensemble, Fight Captain).. Thanks to everyone at The Barrow Group for a wonderful year and to everyone who came to support the show!

Sam Group is an NYC based actor, writer, improviser, daughter, sister, student, former soccer player, and lastly, famously known as Leonardo Dicaprio's first crush (both on and off screen, don't worry about the timeline, and I'm queer so this has an added layer of interesting). Sam graduated from the Comedy Studies program at Second City and studied improv/characters at the Annoyance, while living in Chicago. She hopes to act for film/tv within the next 60 years.

Story Hentoff (she/her) is excited to be performing in her first showcase here with The Barrow Group. Born in Washington, DC, Story starred in several theater productions in high school at St. Andrew's School in Middletown, DE, and was awarded the Drama Prize in her senior year. She moved to New York City after high school in order to pursue her passion for acting. She is grateful to have found The Barrow Group, where she is able to further study and hone her craft.
